

- ◇ The Center for Social Justice and Reconciliation (CSJR) was founded in 2017. Grounded in a ministry that is mandated in scripture, the CSJR was established to remind seminarians of the significance of social justice work as part of ministry and to bring the activist community into the Seminary.
- ◇ We provide educational forums to help people learn about relevant movements for change and opportunities for students to be involved in these movements. We also seek to center social justice in our larger Seminary community, advocating for the inclusion of justice concerns in our collective ethos and in our course offerings.
- ◇ As part of the larger faith community, we hope to be a resource to clergy and laity in the congregations in our region by providing them with access to key movements and movement leaders working to promote social change.
- ◇ To find recordings of past events, information on upcoming events, additional resources, and to sign up to receive our newsletter, please visit www.upsem.edu/csjr or follow us on Facebook and Instagram (@upsemcsjr).
